

Abstract

The present invention has an object to provide an agent for enhancing collagen production and use thereof, and solves the object by establishing an agent for enhancing collagen production, which comprises as effective ingredients L-ascorbic acid or its derivative and a fatty acid or its derivative, and use thereof.